01. The Expectations

As scholars, researchers, and scientists you are expected to

- develop an online presence;
- act as ambassadors for your institutions;
- maintain relations with colleagues and meet new potential collaborators;
- be involved in research; and
- engage with potential funders.

02. The Need

You need access to a platform that gives you more than a view of your download and citation statistics. But tools that are currently available to scholars and researchers don't focus on you – the researcher – and, consequently, don't always deliver.

03. The Solution

Meet Scholabrate®, a new professional social network for researchers. Focusing on you – the researcher, Scholabrate represents the next generation of Academic Social Networks (ASNs).

Based on a researcher-centered design philosophy, Scholabrate helps you develop your online presence and establish credibility, leading to social interactions that can further your research career and your institution's brand. After all, you are more than the sum of your publications!

"Scholabrate is the future of ASNs ..."

04. Some Highlights

Your Brand

Unlike other ASNs focused on becoming publication repositories, Scholabrate helps you develop your personal scholarly brand, leading to increased visibility, credibility, and recognition.

Engage

Enjoy multiple communication modes for collaborative interactions within the Scholabrate environment. Use our integrated instant messaging, chat, and video-conferencing tools to collaborate, seek feedback, connect with audiences, and engage in discourse.

Create

Scholabrate's integrated tools free up to 50% of the time spent in the typical research workflow* on switching between apps, giving you and your team the freedom to focus on what's important.

* The typical research workflow is described in "Innovations in Scholarly Communication: Changing Research Workflows". Available at <https://101innovations.wordpress.com/>.

Extend

Improve teaching effectiveness & learning outcomes by moving the education experience beyond the classroom.

Move On

Article download statistics are nice, but don't tell the whole story – your story! Scholabrate's proprietary data visualization dashboard showcases your achievements more easily and makes insights more readily available so you can think "outside the box."

Go Further

Participate in scholarly and cross-cultural exchanges by harnessing the power of the cloud to overcome barriers of time, location, economics and access to technology faced by many researchers around the globe.

“Many well known academic social networks offer profile pages and uploading options ... but they do little to show the complete story ... Scholabrate highlights all”
